School Counselors

Who Am I?

Sometimes, I wish I could zoom through the school corridors on rollerblades. As a counselor, I have a heavy load with many children to look after - and not enough hours in the day to give them all the attention they need. Some only need help finding a tutor or the right college fit. Others are struggling with parental conflicts or how to handle a crush. And then there those who are getting themselves into deep trouble—drugs, alcohol, stealing, habitual truancy. These are kids on their way from school to prison. I want to help them, but am at a loss about what I can do.

What Is MST?

Multisystemic Therapy (MST) would be the perfect resource for you. You don't have the time these at-risk students need. MST, on the other hand, works extensively with the young person and their family. An MST therapist is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week in case of a crisis. The family develops plans that keep the student out of trouble and in the classroom. Of those who complete the program, 86 percent are either in school or working. Visit our website to find out if there's an organization providing MST in your community, and contact them to learn how you can start referring students to receive services.
